About The Victoria Foundation .

In 2008, with the support of a Community Development Corporation (CDC), the first community-based, Latino Foundation in the United States was established - The Victoria Foundation.

Its mission: To engage the community and others in increasing the resources that will bring significant change to communities using various disciplines such as micro grants, nonprofit incubators, and donor-advised funds. The Foundation's growth is focused on engaging and promoting the contribution of the overall community, as the Foundation takes on a more prominent role in the structure of Phoenix and Arizona. The Victoria Foundation believes that it can make a positive difference for neighborhoods and families in Arizona.
